

2018 TOAL Mini Institute

The Importance of Contract Management

Sunday, September 30
1:00 pm – 4:00 pm
Embassy Suites • Frisco, TX

The Mini Institute, The Importance of Contract Management, will be facilitated by several former TOAL Past Presidents. This will be an inter-active working session with the facilitators and the attendees.

Often there are several ways of handling Contract Management through Procurement. Contract Management does involve making an investment, setting the groundwork and actual contractual verbiage and follow up. This mini-institute will cover the resources, processes, contractual terms and documenting the review and follow up. We will use several different examples of contracts and will work as a team in determining the best contract management techniques to assure that the performance on the contract is completed as per the agreement.

Do we really have time to do contract management? Can we afford not to invest in Contract Management? Come to the mini-institute and be part of the solution for procurement and your institution.

Facilitators

Carol Barnhill C.P.M., CPPO, APO
Director, Procurement Services
Arkansas State University-Jonesboro

Linda Fast, APO, CPPO, CPPB
Manager of Procurement Services
University of Arkansas

Jane Benton, CPPO
Vice President
South Government Sourcing Solutions

Mary Sue Goldwater, C.P.M.
Executive Director, Compliance Management
E&I Cooperative Services